“ You were a force of nature to be reckoned with. You loved to explore new places, had a soft spot for animals and loved spending time with the grandkids. Even though your driving habits were terrifying at times, the trips we took together and the hours of conversation will always be a cherished memory of mine. Any time we needed you, you were always there for us. You never held back and always gave your honest opinion. You took in so many broken kids into your home and treated them like your own. From our crazy and wild friends, to even complete strangers... they were always welcome in the house. They were always welcome at the dinner table, and they always got that honest opinion when they needed it. You worked your entire life to provide for your family and never forgot a birthday, an anniversary or an important day in our lives. You will be missed by so many and most of all, you will always be loved by us. I miss you more than words can even explain.

Your daughter,

Ania
