

Krystyna "Styna" J. Ramos

November 13, 1988 - July 22, 2021

My Krystyna came into this world weighing 9lbs 13oz, a huge gorgeous bundle of joy. My daughter turned into a beautiful, amazing, genuine, spiritual woman with a heart of gold. She accepted everyone for who they were. If you were her friend, it was for life. She loved with her whole heart. Her smile, her laughter, her humor, and her love filled rooms with joy and sunshine. There was no rainy day she couldn't outshine. Life experience brought her hardships and triumphs, ups and downs, similar to what we all experience growing up, and some that were heavier than we can understand. Styna always told me, "Mom, you're my rock!" I am not sure she knew she was my rock, even in these last few tough and painful years on this Earth.

Krystyna was open about her love for her family. I always played K-Love on the radio. Krystyna listened and came to me and told me "God gave me you," is my song to you mom. As I wrote this, I listened to the song and realized she was right because this song describes my baby Styna. If you don't know it, some of the lyrics are:

"I've been a walking heartache. I've made a mess of me. The person that I've been lately ain't who I wanna be."

Those lyrics sum up the difficult battle Krystyna faced with addiction. Yes, I was her anchor and one of her biggest loves, but I now know she had so many.

After getting the news of my daughter's death, I had to question God. I wondered what her purpose was on Earth. The next morning, I found out she was a rock to many more people than I ever could have guessed! Friends, family members, coworkers - so many I knew and so many more that I didn't know reached out to her sister Nicole through Facebook. They all shared stories about Krystyna walking them through dark times. So, through all the darkness she faced, she still created so much light for those she loved. And that was her purpose in this life. She was here to share her big open heart with all of us - to bring her sunshine into dark places and walk people back into the light.

My daughter was straight up and strong in faith, yet there were demons even she could not battle. I ask that everyone who she touched, remember her spirit and celebrate her life. Live the same love she showed you, and honor her spirituality by being genuine with those you love. I know that our Father God has taken her home and she's not suffering anymore. My Styna is dancing and laughing in God's house now. Until I see you again my baby girl, mom loves you always.

This was the daily devotion I read the day Krystyna went home with the Lord.

Taken from "Jesus Today" By Sarah Young P. 50

I guide you in the path of wisdom and lead you along straight paths (Proverbs 4:11).

I know how confused you sometimes feel-and how much you long to find the way forward. You have tried so many different things; you have been so hopeful at times. Yet your hope-filled paths have led to disappointment. I want you to know that I fully understand how hard your journey has been. I also assure you that I can bring good out of every bit of it.

This is the way of wisdom: trusting Me no matter what happens in your life. It is through trust that you follow Me along the right path. There are many things that seem random or wrong as you go along your journey. Yet I am able to fit them all into a comprehensive plan for good-My Master Plan. So don't be fooled by the way things appear at a given point in time. You are looking at only a very small piece of a massively big picture. From your limited perspective, your journey may be confusing, with puzzling twists and turns. However, from My limitless, big-picture perspective, I am indeed leading you along straight paths.

“ Hey Styna it's your Mom again. The month of July is always so rough emotionally. This Tuesday July 22 will be 4 years that you left this earth. It's hard to believe that I haven't seen you for 4 years. I often find myself sitting in my living room with your little shrine. I wonder how many people think of you. I can only hope that on the anniversary of your death that everyone you knew takes a moment to remember you. I wonder if the moments that I cry for no reason besides the fact that I'm thinking of you ii wonder if you are thinking of me or if you are near me at those times. At least that is what I'm hoping.

4 years have passed by do quickly and yet the pain of losing you always feels like yesterday. I'm still running a grief share group in honor of your. Losing a daughter is hard. Losing you my daughter is the hardest thing I have ever had to survive. I will be making your favorite dinner Tuesday . My door is open to anyone who would like to share your memories. I love you. Hope heaven is good to you cause earth without you is not the same. Thank God for the cell phone that I can still play videos are hear your voice and laughter.
Miss you always,

Today is July 20th, this was the last time I saw or hug you in 2021. It feels like yesterday and yet so long ago. We will be celebrating you life on July 22nd. Reminiscing about you the joy you brought to so many lives. The whole in my heart will never mend and no one in the family understands my pain. Loading a child is so hard no matter what age your child is. I glad for having you as long as I did, God has blessed me with that time. I know you are his child and he called you home so you could be at peace. I continue to run a griefshare group in your honor. It helps me to share my loss with people who are going through similar pain.no matter where I look I see and remember you. “ Hi Billy. I was at someone's house over the weekend and I was standing alone in their living room and I was like wait..sharks. So many shark statues and items and Knick knacks. I've been to this house before and I've never noticed all the sharks. If it wasn't someone we were friends with and if it was 10 years ago. I would have let one of those sharks fall into my purse and given it to you. You'd yell at me and tell me I'm going to hell but you'd still keep it.

“ The month of November has been hard one this year, the realization that it's your 3rd birthday you get to celebrate in heaven and not here with us is hard to accept this year. I miss the old traditions of ordering you a cake with some wild phrases of “ Happy Birthday Unicorn Queen!” Or what ever you wanted written on it. I miss the your demands of coffee and target runs, beacuse it was the queens birthday! The new tradition is your favorit meal, donuts instead of cake and balloons for the kids to write a special note on and release into the evening sky. Anastasia runs out of room as she writes you a book on a single ballon. Bella is always lost for words on what to tell you and Blake can finally write you something with out asking how to spell. It's a truly awkward day in our house as we try to celebrate you and not cry. Flower deliveries have been coming since Friday. I miss you more than anything in this world and I love beyond heaven and back. 💜 Happy 3rd heavenly Birthday, forever 32. 💜

“ Styna,

I miss you so much! This Easter was really hard. I couldn't get myself together to do an Easter egg hunt with the kids. You were always the big kid that would get the kids so excited about looking for eggs. your laughter is so missed. As you know since you are looking down from heaven I want you to know that I went back to church. I'm even co leading a griefshare group. I'm doing this in honor of you. Maybe I can help others whom lost a child too young. I'm perparing for your 2 year anniversary in heaven. I want to give people a keychain with a dragonfly on it so people will remember you. As I was looking on a website the poem As I sit in heaven popped up on my phone. I brought tears to my eyes. I know in my heart that you're in the best place ever heaven. To be with God has to be amazing. I know your spirit is with me and that you want me to be happy. I'm trying my best. Thank you for the signs you send me. I wish I could see you in my dreams. I keep looking and buying dragonfly's cause they remind me of you so colorful and free spirited. When I cook your favorite foods or cook for gathering I miss you most. What I would do to yell at you stay out of my pots. Thinking of you always my rock. Enjoy your time in heaven until I come to be with you again. Love ya your Mom

And you know whose dad is the technician that shows up. You had to have laughed at that!! I could heard you in my head the entire time making fun of me and laughing. Saying the same joke doug said about my almost father in law. I wanted to text you right away because this was totally something you'd have cracked up with. My stomach tightened up knowing I can't really text you. I love you forever. Everyday there's something that makes me think about you. Every damn day. At work someone asked me about my shark tattoo. “ Soooo I’m considering trying to get me associates. But we’ll see if it actually even happens.. But.. means going back to Wright. I remember picking you up in the mornings and going to school together. What did we take..gym and music. Which I dropped out of and you finished. I’m such an idiot for dropping them. Damn I regret not staying and getting a good grade with you. Remember how weird music was..he didn’t care if we copied. And then we’d go to the cafe and you’d be so embarrassed how I’d get a corn dog and just walk around chomping on it lol. One of the first things I remember was you posting on your MySpace where you could write like an update and you were nervous about giving a speech in speech class. Random Memories. We were so young then and thought we were old! It’s wild it’s been years now and I just wanna text you or send you memes. We never lost contact fully. In snap chat or insta or a text. A random thought popped up and you’d send me something or vice versa. You had such an impact on anyone you came in contact with dude..I think about all the peoples souls you touched. I wish you were here. You made every single person feel special and seen. If you were here now I can imagine the shit talk we’d be saying to eachother and then end with but for real dude you know I support you. Remember how I always joked how I fell in love with your beauty. You’d be so mad and hate on me. But you always had something extra about yourself. A dominant spirit. My blue eyed soul sister. Well anyways. I gotta go do laundry. Sometimes when I’m in the basement alone I’m like crap this is gonna be the time she wants to pop out and say hello and scare me lol. I love you forever. Visit me sometime. I haven’t had a dream about you in months but the two I have had. Def was you. Goodnight billy.

“ Sometimes I think about the last few years before you left. I know we drifted apart but we were never really too far from each other. There would be a text, a snap, some silly little joke we'd pop in and say and reminisce. I feel like I don't deserve to miss you..I should have kept in touch more and I'm really sorry. I like to think you hear me talking to you when I'm alone, sometimes there are signs from you..or I think they're signs. Maybe I'm just wishing they are. I've had a hard week..it's prolly more than just a week. I don't know. I listen to our songs. I put a photo of us up at work for the day of the dead..even when we were on our own paths and doing our own things I would always tell people how I had a soft spot for you..we were just letting life be life and being busy took over. I shared some of the best years of my life having you to grow up with and they went too fast and weren't long enough. I'm trying to not be too busy for friends now..like I usually do or say I am. It's just one of those weeks ya know? In my head. But I hope you're up in heaven screaming how November is your month! I miss you. I always felt like you and I were so similar in ways I can't find the words for but I know you we talked about it..and it really blows to not have you.

“ Krystyna,
It's your mom. Tomorrow will mark the anniversary of your death, how fast the year has rolled by. I almost lost you at the age of four when you had a Ruptured appendix. How I prayed to God not to take you from me. Pledging for more time with you. God answered my prays because the doctors found the abscess, removed it and you got better. Krystyna you struggled for a long time with your demons. I always prayed for God to keep you safe and always asked my grandma to watch over you. The days before your death I prayed for God to intervene and help you with your struggles. This time he answered me by taking you home. I think and wonder what his plan is because I still feel like he took you to early. I'm grateful that you are not in anymore pain and I know your in heaven. I'm still not ready and find my self feeling lonely and missing you. Your smile, laugh and your smart ass mouth are so missed. You got me through so many ups and downs in my life. I'm told by many your with me always. Sometimes I feel you but wish it were more often. No one prepares you when it comes to losing a child. I was suppose to go first, I thought. Styna you are so missed. Your nieces and nephew are starting to talk about their memories of you. Some nights we spend hours laughing and remembering you, it feels so good to laugh with them. I try so hard not to show my sadness and tears around my grandkids. So Krystyna July 22 be with us as we open our home to family and friends whom are missing you as well. We will be celebrating your first year in heaven. My darling baby I love you and miss you soooo much.

“ Stopped by your house today and played with the kids...they laugh loud like you! It means alot to me to connect with them. I miss you dude. It's summer time and I know you'd be begging me to come out and play with you. Mia found some old photos of us..I wish I never deleted my fb because that's were the best ones were..our matching clothes and piggy pack rides. It's been 1 year since we spoke..and the last thing you talked to me about was my kitten..she's 1 now. I love you and think of you everyday. Guess I'm just rambling here like a dork for you ❤️

“ I thought of you today, But that is nothing new. I thought about you yesterday and days before that too. I think about you in silence, I often speak your name.

All I have are memories and your pictures in a frame. Your memory is a keepsake from which I'll never part.

God has you in His arms, I have you in my heart.

I love you and miss you dearly 🥰🥰🥰🥰💕💕💕💕

“ Hey Styna,
Today is June 14 and it's a hot sunny day. The kind of days you loved so you could lay out and get some sun. I came home from work and the girls were in the pool laying with sun glasses just like you use to do. When I watch them I always think of you. I smile but yet my heart is heavily missing your presents. I sit in the yard in your spot and wonder how you are doing in heaven. The joy that you must be bring to everyone up there. I can hear your laughter when I sit in the quite yard. I love you and miss you so much! Love ya your Mom

“ My baby Styna,
Today is such a heavy day for me. My heart is broken with a huge hole. My tears run down my face uncontrollably. Missing you more and more each day. You once told Tasia when she made a comment that she wished to die. You told her that we would all miss her if she where not here. Well Styna you went home to our Father and your mom, sister and nieces and nephew are all falling apart missing you greatly. I can't put the pieces together. Reality has struck us so hard that you will never walk through our door. Home is not the same without you none of us are. We love you, miss you and can't wait to see you again when he calls us home too.
Love ya my rock, your mom

“ My darling daughter Krystyna,
It has been 5 months now since you went home to heaven. Your presence is missed her on earth each day. My brain keeps telling my heart that your in a better place with no more pain, but my heart has a big hole in it. I find it hard to explain my emptiness but yet am so grateful that God has chosen to take you to the heavens above were you are loved and at peace.you need to know that not only I love you. You have touched so many people on earth that are missing you terribly. Tomorrow we will be celebrating the birth of Jesus the reason that I know that I will see you again. God gave his only son so that we can be for given and have eternal life in heaven. There will be a place for you at our table so I hope your spirit will join us for a little bit. I know it's your first Christmas with Jesus and I can only imagine how special that can be. Styna I love you yesterday, today and tomorrow. Love you your Mamacita

“ Happy Birthday Styna!!!! Today is 113 days that you went home to our Father. At times it seems like forever and at times it feels like you left yesterday. I hope your dancing, singing and looking down on everyone whom you loved and loved you in return. My heart aches for your physical appearance, your voice, laughter, smile and let's not forget your attitude. Today I'm celebrating your birthday with family and some of your friends so let your spirit be felt in our home today. My rock how I love you and miss you until we meet again. Once again happy 33rd birthday. Love your mom

Girl you where an amazing person. Gone from this earth but your memory lives on . You were an angel on this earth. People you were friends with on Facebook even miss you. I miss you so much. I have good days and then I have moments that I just want to cry. God knew you before you where born and knew every day of your life. When he took you home he knew that he was taking an angel home. Even in your death you make me proud that I was your mother. I love you now and forever. Watch over everyone whom you loved. I live each day knowing that God promised I will see you when he calls me home. Love ya your mom

“ My darling Styna, As the days pass I find myself missing you more each day. I find myself not wanting to lock the top lock hoping you might walk through the door. When I cook I miss you getting into the pots asking how much longer for dinner. When I grill your not there to take the first pincho off the grill. I miss your laugh and your silliness with your filters on your phone. I miss you dearly and find some comfort in knowing that your pain on this earth is over. Our father God has took you home to shine with all the angels. I know you were greeting by love ones whom went before you. Please watch over us from above. Love your my rock. Your Mom

“ Our friendship started in 8th grade when I invited her over to bake cookies. We talked and walked for hours. It quickly turned into that every day phone call of, "I'm coming over, meet me halfway". She was my best friend throughout the most important years of a young girl's life. Of our lives. We turned into adults together with years of experience, mistakes, accomplishments but all of it built history. There was never any judgment. Just honesty. Sometimes the brutal truth. Truth that hurt to hear and was hard to say. But she was there. I was there. I'll never not think of her when I smell Burberry perfume or when I hear a Mariah Carey song. Her ability to listen to the same song over and over again can be matched by no other. I didn't know pickles came in a bag until her. I could pick out her laugh in a crowd. Every time I walked into her room, it was rearranged. My husband chose her to keep me occupied and bring me to my surprise engagement because he knew I would do anything she wanted to do without a question or any hesitation. I have so much more that I could share and I'm now realizing that every moment spent with her and every memory I have is special now. We never did make those cookies that day. But we did make a friendship that will always be a part of who I am today. A friendship that I can't go back in time and build and wouldn't find with anyone else anyways. A friendship that I will never forget. I'll miss her always.

“ This fall would mark 26 years of having the privilege of knowing this remarkable human being. Years that were full of love, laughter, crying, hugging..... I could make a list that never stops. Not a single memory comes to my mind that she wasn't there with me for. There were times when we didn't agree with one another and there were times where we both had the same thought without even speaking it. To say that she is my friend can never come close to describing the relationship that we had. Through thick and thin, near and far, she was always there. And in my heart is where she will stay.

“ Hi, my name is Tiara Gregoire. I was a friend of Krystyna's here on Facebook... I wanted to tell you I'm so sorry for your loss. She was such a wonderful and beautiful person with a heart of gold... Krystyna and I met thru a mutual friend here on Facebook and she accepted me and supported me through so many of my ups n downs... she encouraged me and helped me thru some really heavy stuff... I will miss her dearly. I wanted to share these pictures I took last night. I went to my church to pray and cry... the church was closed but I like to go there sometimes after hours to sit in the field behind the church... I was taking pictures of the full moon and I was praying and crying and I turned to go to the field to sit and I saw this doe... I truly believe that was Krystyna saying goodbye... my thoughts and prayers are with you and your family in this time of great sorrow. God Bless you and your family. 💕💕💕

“ I went to Canty with Krystyna and then we both went to Taft for high school. We hung out every single day freshman year. Styna, Amanda, and I were inseparable for quite some time. I will always remember our Bobo runs, our gas station trips, countless sleepovers, getting ready at Amanda's house before school- or ditching school to go to your house. Your energy was contagious and you always lit up a room. Your laugh ...I don't think any of us will ever forget it. I still cannot believe the news, but I am glad you are free! I hope you find the happiness you were searching for. I will always cherish your friendship. I will love you forever and always. We know you're dancing in Heaven with that beautiful smile on your face. Until we meet again! 💕

“ First and foremost my condolences to you Barb, Nicole, and the whole entire family. I am so sorry for this tragic lost. I would have never known about this if it wasn't for my sister. This is by far the most tragic news that I couldn't and didn't want to believe. What can I say about my STYNA..... There are no words to express how I LOVED HER SO MUCH. STYNA was someone if you knew her were so lucky to have in your life . She was my best friend. She was my sister from another mother!! As we always said!! All the times I slept over and we had endless moments of laughter, singing, swimming next door. Running all through the house, STYNA running into the back room to bother mom!!! Hugging her after she made mom a little frustrated!! Staying up all night just talking the night away! She was there for me when my father got murdered in grammar school and she never left my side. She pulled me through the toughest times of my life! She was always there for me when I needed her. A friend and sister you always depended on. A person who loved with her whole heart no matter what. A smile on her face even through difficult times. Always cracking jokes! I will always love you STYNA and will miss you so much!! I know now that you are in a better place in heaven the best Angel shining down. I will always remember all the beautiful moments we shared. I will never forget you and will always love you.

“ Krystyna and I first met each other in 2004 at Taft High School during our Sophomore Year of High School. We had a very strict P.E. Teacher who had a very blunt and strong personality who was always constantly in our faces. Recognizing we were Kindred Spirits we really bonded throughout the year as decided that we would do things our way even if the P.E. Teacher did not like it. No matter what we struggled through we always found a way to lift each other up and we just bonded and had this love for each other even more I struggled to fit in after I came out of the closet. I used to go by Kenny at that time and I remember she would always tell me, "Kenny F our haters cuz they're too stupid and immature to deal with how great we are." We were always constantly being told to stop being so loud in the hallways that we would always talk and laugh louder just to upset them. We were unable to hang out after school and during the weekends because there was always something going on with us that we could never pencil each other in.

When Krystyna transferred toward the beginning of Sophomore year I had a hard adjustment period without her. I felt like I lost my Sister and best friend, but I understood that our paths were different for us at that time. This was also during a time when social media and Smartphones were not as prevalent as it is now so staying in touch was not always the easiest for us.

Our parting line used to be, "see ya when I see ya." We used to say it during class before the bell rang. I remember when we were able to stay in touch we continued to say that before we had to leave the conversation. By the end of Senior Year we reconnected again and I do remember we wanted to see each other because we were both in a better place to stay in touch more. However, I was also leaving for Los Angeles for college during this time that it was never the right time for us. We did stay in touch as we promised we would and it was as if nothing changed between us. I will always remember how much zest for her life she had and how much I aspired to have that in my life. She helped me with recent issues I was experiencing and we always took the time to connect with each other. I will always remember and love her for the person and the friend she was. To her family and friends I mourn with you and am here for you. you have my deepest condolences. Krystyna, I will see ya when I see ya...
