“ For 24 years of my life which was more then half my life at the time of our divorce, we had good times and bad times. You raised my children from a young age, took on the responsibilities of a dad. You cooked and cleaned and took very good care of us. Although there were alot of heartaches, and things i still don't understand, i hope you find freedom from the demons and i hope you found what you needed in heaven that you couldn't find on earth. RIP Richie! It took me this long to finally say that because in death come truth and my reality of the things i denied that were really the true. But more then anything I forgive you because God says we shall forgive even the enemy.

“ I don't even know where to start.
Big brother this is all a dream that I wish would end. I miss you so much Richy. I miss your daily mesaages telling me you love me and that I need to take care of myself. You were always by my side even was I was younger and I use to runaway to your house because I didn't want to be home. You never got mad at me, instead you would tell me to just stay with you and Mary so you know I was staying out of trouble lol.
You promised me that you would fight and be strong and now your not here anymore. But I know in my heart you were tired and needed to rest already. I miss you ever so much big brother. I am always reading your messages that you sent me.
Please give hugs to the family. This is not good bye it's more of I will see you one day again.
I love you so much. RIP Richy

“ This all seems like a bad dream to me still. I am so heartbroken and crushed 😭 Although I ask why was my daddy taken from me, deep in my heart I know he needed to be at rest and at peace after years of pain. My dad is the strongest man I know and I will miss him more than words could ever explain 😭 i love you daddy ,I'll see you soon watch over me and the kids and give my big sister Erica and extra big hug from me.

“ There could be days , weeks or even months that could pass and we could pick up like se never missed a beat. I’m sure many knew his sense humor and loving demeanor; I’ll for miss and remember him for that. I remember when they would visit Micole and I would pretend to be sleeping holding hands so she could stay- but he carry her to the van saying maybe next time. I remember falling off my bike in their neighbors yard, the older woman screamed at me, but he just laughed. When we laughed about it years later he said “she must of had something up her a$$!”Lol . He was the ultimate supporter of trouble...even in my youngest years ...I’d see the I’m famous eye brow raise, the blue eye glaze and a smile that all said Why not !! One time in particular- we were bbq at my mom and dads.. pretty sure my parents argued, Nicole and I begged him to stay and he couldn’t refuse- I remember exactly where we all stood in the yard... he look at me, raise his eye brow and said hey Meliss, mom likes the corn well done right ... and I giggled and said YES!! So welll done is what my mom got .. and you know what I got ? In trouble! BUT it was worth all of it cause it became his signature I miss you Uncle Rich glad your not hurting any more and that your with everyone else we’ve been missing; I love you 💕 love Melissa
